ERO Mining charts new path

ERO Mining (ASX:ERO) is on the path to chart a new course as it will explore for new minerals exploration and development opportunities through value accretive acquisitions.

As a significant proportion of the current ERP assets is not viable for on-ground exploration due to permitting and approval delays, the company plans to increase shareholder value via acquisitions.

Its last quarter activity included grant of deed of access by the Defense Department for the Billa Kalina iron oxide copper gold uranium project; negotiations with potential partners over Padthaway mineral sands projects and efforts to advance the lithium exploration at Wertaloon.

It had about $0.758 million in cash at the end of last quarter.
