Bryah Resources appoints Ian Stuart to vacant chairman position

Bryah Resources Ltd (ASX:BYH) has appointed geologist Ian Stuart as its non-executive chairman to the board.

Stuart was previously managing director of Laconia Resources from 2009 to 2014 and prior to that he worked at Macquarie Group Ltd (ASX:MQG).

His time at Macquarie provided him with extensive experience in capital markets, public company governance and management across Australia and internationally.

Stuart has also worked as a senior geologist throughout Australia and Africa, exploring for gold and base metals.

He has particularly relevant experience in exploring volcanic-hosted massive sulphide (VMS) deposits, including feasibility studies and project development.

Bryah's managing director Neil Marston said: "During his tenure as a non-executive director, Stuart Hall has made a significant contribution to the company, assisting in its successful ASX listing in 2017, and providing rigorous oversight of the company's manganese, copper and gold exploration activities.

"Bryah Resources has quickly achieved exploration success, and we thank Stuart for his valuable service over the last 2 years.

"We also extend a warm welcome to Ian Stuart to fill the vacant chair position.

"Ian brings a wealth of international mining experience, having worked in Australia, Africa and Latin America and has significant knowledge of the capital markets, which we believe will greatly benefit the company."

46-hole maiden drill program completed

Bryah is a copper-gold-manganese focused explorer with two projects located in central Western Australia, being the 720-square-kilometre Bryah Basin Project and the 202-square-kilometre Gabanintha Project.

The company also holds a one-year option to acquire the historical Horseshoe South Manganese Mine and the manganese mineral rights over a further 154 square kilometres of ground in the Bryah Basin.

During the December quarter the company completed its first drilling program in the Bryah Basin discovering the high-grade gold at the Windalah Prospect.
