Cellmid CEO Maria Halasz.

In these countries where significant additional markets for the company's hair care products exist, the same patent is under examination.

Reduction of hair loss

Topical application of formulations containing key botanical extracts and FGF5-inhibiting monoterpenoids is central to Advangen's évolis® products against hair loss.

The évolis® products containing monoterpenoid compounds have been shown to reduce hair loss and increase the number of actively growing follicles in a blinded, placebo-controlled clinical study.

These results were published in the journal Clinical, Cosmetic, and Investigational Dermatology (2017) 10: 71-85.

The monoterpenoids-alopecia patents are held by Cellmid's wholly-owned subsidiary, Advangen Limited.
