Oklo Resources adding to and advancing portfolio of West Mali gold projects

Oklo Resources Ltd (ASX:OKU) managing director and chief executive Simon Taylor speaks to Proactive Investors about the team and strategy propelling the Mali-focused gold explorer. "Big landholding, fantastic jurisdiction, really good team to implement the projects, and I think the other key part of our story is our backers - we've got a fantastic share register," summarises Taylor.

At the flagship Dandoko Project in West Mali, a 50,000 metre drill program centred on five anomalies at the Seko prospect is coming to a close. A number of results have already been released showing high-grade oxide and primary gold intersections, with more drilling and test work results due to be announced in the coming weeks and months.

The company is leveraged to the prolific greenstone belts of Western Mali, with four other projects in the same region as Dandoko, including the recently-acquired Kouroufing and Kandiole Sud assets. Early exploration work is underway at Kouroufing, and results from that will add to the news flows expected over the coming months as field work stops for the rainy season.
