Titanium Sands aims to boost reserves at low-capex mineral sands project

Titanium Sands Ltd (ASX:TSL) managing director James Searle speaks to Proactive Investors about the titanium sands company's relisting on the ASX last December. "We're a heavy mineral sands company but our focus is very much towards projects that can be developed rapidly," says Searle. The company's main project is the Mannar Island project in Sri Lanka at which drilling is expanding resources and reserves. Searle continues, "The thing that interested us about the project is its high-grade ... [and] it looks like it can be developed with a modest capital hurdle."
