Anson Resources reports high brine flow rate at Paradox project in Utah

Anson Resources Ltd (ASX:ASN) CEO Bruce Richardson tells Proactive Investors the lithium exploration company has recorded extremely high brine flow rates during down hole geophysical surveys at its Paradox Brine Project in Utah, which allows brine to flow without the need for extraction pumping.

Richardson, who is in New York for the lithium-focused Benchmark World Tour Summit, says these flow rates will be used in the company's JORC resource calculation.
