Cirralto highlights positive results from independent assessment of systems

Cirralto Ltd (ASX:CRO) managing director Adrian Floate speaks to Proactive about the significance of a recent independent security audit, described as a "huge feather in the cap for our development team and its leadership".

The company has undertaken two independent assessments of its systems, which Floate said brought "really pleasing results".

He said: "It ultimately means we will be able to process more transactions for our customers at a lower price point.

"We have reduced our data exchange load by about 80%, which means we can process more transactions faster.

"This is a huge opportunity for us to take the next step for our scaling capacity as we set sail for a trajectory that is substantially bigger than where we are playing now."
